MAYFAIR

THE FOOTMAN HISTORY

The Footman sits on Charles Street, Mayfair dating back to 1749. The three floored pub has been renamed a few times including The Running Horse and The Only Running Footman.

The pub was frequented by the Footmen who used to serve the households in Mayfair, Footmen were used to go ahead of a household's coach to clear a passage way through London's overcrowded, narrow streets and to pay any tolls. As roads became better and clearer and the need for Footmen slowly declined, one bought the pub and named it after himself.

To become a Footman some criteria had to be met, a Footman must be 6ft tall fit and handsome. Before a postal service had been introduced the Footmen were asked to take messages and deliver parcels resulting them being the best source of gossip. As the need for Footmen declined, rather than let them go they were re-employed as house servants.

The name "Running Footman" also came about as the wealthy like to challenge their Footmen to a running race against other households. Samuel Pepys recorded on the 3rd July 1663 that...

"The town talk this day is of nothing but the great foot-race run this day on Banstead Downs, between Lee, the Duke of Richmond's Footman, and a Tyler, a famous runner. And Lee Hath beat him; though the King and Duke of York and all the men almost did bet three or four to one upon the Tyler's head."

The Footman was famous for its exterior sign, it used to read "I am the Only Running Footman". The sign was 24 characters long at its time was the longest pub name in London. This stayed true until more modern pubs were created and used more elaborate names.
